HONGKONG, AUGUST 31st, 1910.

KOREA is an "independent state" no longer. The Emperor, according to the wording of the Treaty of Annexation, "makes complete and permanent cession to His Majesty the Emperor of Japan of all rights of sovereignty over the whole of Korea," and the Emperor of Japan "accepts the concession," and "consents" to the complete annexation of Korea to the Empire of Japan. A Declaration of reasons for the annexation has been published by the Japanese Government, from which we learn that "the existing system of government in Korea has not proved entirely equal to the duty of preserving public order and tranquillity, and in addition a spirit of suspicion and misgiving dominates the whole peninsula." Though the Government of Japan has been publishing annually exhaustive reports on "Reforms and Progress" in Korea, this is the first time a public confession of failure to preserve public order and tranquillity has been made, and those who have studied these reports may well entertain a doubt as to whether Japan does not do herself injustice by this confession of failure which certainly is not warranted by the facts as they have been officially related. That "suspicion and misgiving" have dominated the whole peninsula is well known. In the circumstances this was only to be expected, and it is surprising—and not a little ludicrous—

to find complaint made of this in a State document which so completely justifies these suspicions and misgivings. Nevertheless, the prevalence of this hostile feeling may be cited as forcing the hand of the Government, and perhaps the Japanese Government is right in expecting that with complete annexation the Korean people will the sooner become reconciled to the Japanese control of the administration, for it was almost inevitable that hostility would increase with the growing confidence of the Koreans in their ability to control the machinery of government. Much blood, we fear, may yet be shed in Korea before the national spirit evinced in the insurrectionary movements of the past few years dies out—if this confession of failure to cope with the present extent of public hostility is warranted by the facts. Down to the end of 1903, it is officially recorded that the Japanese army, gendarmes and police in Korea had killed off 14,566 insurgents. Nearly nine thousand insurgents surrendered, and still the Japanese Government declares that suspicion and misgiving dominate the whole peninsula and that the existing system of government in Korea has not proved entirely equal to the duty of preserving public order and tranquillity. Must we look forward under the new régime to more rigorous measures of repression? No other inference is to be drawn from the Japanese Government's declaration. Yet, as we stated a few days ago, the Residency-General's latest report is authority for the statement that "organised insurgents are to-day almost extinct, nothing remaining except bands of the highway robber class," and the whole report when it deals with the subject of "Peace and Order" gives one the impression that the Japanese military and police authorities have the situation well in hand. In short, we are not convinced that by the complete annexation of Korea Japan will be in any better position than she is to-day "to maintain peace and stability in Korea, to promote the prosperity and welfare of Koreans, and at the same time to ensure 'the safety and repose of foreign residents.'" Japan has had full powers of control in all these respects, and down to the present she appears to have exercised them with successful results, carrying on her great work of reform with a wisdom and discretion claiming the admiration of all impartial observers. We do not see what further powers Japan needs at the present time to accomplish all the purposes set forth in the preamble of the Declaration. The power to increase the revenue of the territory by a Customs union with Japan, and by the application to Korea of the laws affecting the freedom of trade and commerce which are in operation in Japan, would be a solid advantage. But with characteristic prudence and sagacity she has undertaken to maintain the existing conditions of foreign trade for a period of ten years—a conciliatory provision which will doubtless be acceptable to the Powers, whose only objection to annexation has been inspired by the apprehension of injurious consequences to their small but increasing trade with Korea. It is important to note that Japanese trade with Korea will be subject to the same Customs tariff and the same regulations as the trade of the foreign countries during the next ten years. As Japan develops her programme of reforms in Korea, ensuring to the people such peace, prosperity and security as they have not for centuries enjoyed, trade and commerce is bound to develop. Japan in those circumstances would be justified in anticipating that at the end of a decade the Powers would less unwillingly concede her title to preferential treatment for the commerce and trade between Korea and the motherland, just as they have acquiesced in the American tariff arrangements for the Philippine Islands.

The P. M. steamer Siberia and the N.Y.K. liner Kuanga-Maru were subjected to short detentions in quarantine at Japan ports owing to the discovery of cases of cholera. The case against the second man charged with arsenic in connection with a recent fire at No. 123, Shanghai Street, Yau-mat, concluded before Mr. J. B. Wood at the Magistracy yesterday, when the defendant was committed for trial. The Korean who attempted to commit suicide at the Astor House last week was charged before Mr. E. B. Hallifax at the Magistracy yesterday and remanded, defendant stating that he wished to wire to Seoul for a remittance to pay his passage out of the Colony. After an illness of many months duration Constable Gallagher of the Hongkong Police Force died in the Government Civil Hospital early yesterday morning. Deceased, who has served with the local police for about five years, leaves a wife and mother in England. He was interred in the Happy Valley cemetery last night, a number of members of the force following his remains to their last resting place.

Peking is to have a Supreme Court constituted on Western models. The building is to cost Tls. 230,000. In the latter respect, at least, they have not come to Hongkong for the model.

Captain Costa of the steamer Isla Verde appeared before Mr. J. B. Wood at the Magistracy yesterday on a charge of anchoring in the area of the cable reserve. It is believed that an anchor dropped by the steamer did some damage to the cables. The hearing of the case was adjourned for a week.

Through the generosity of the coxswain of a Quarry Bay launch, a coolie was permitted to sleep on board on Tuesday night, and yesterday he was charged before Mr. J. B. Wood at the Magistracy with stealing the coxswain's coat. He told the Court that the coat must have worked itself on him while restless in his sleep. As this story did not refute the charge, however, his Worship sentenced the thief to three weeks' imprisonment with hard labour.

A Chinese with no employment took two friends to a restaurant at Shek-tszai on Monday night and stood treat. Food was followed by wine, and the friends sat talking into the early hours of morning. When the bill was produced and a settlement demanded the host found that he had only three cents in his pocket. The police were called in and he was removed to the West Point Station, and yesterday was charged before Mr. E. B. Hallifax at the Magistracy with obtaining goods by false pretences. As he had nothing to say in answer to the charge, his Worship sentenced him to three weeks' imprisonment with hard labour and six hours' stocks.

SUSPECTED FATAL DRAUGHT.

A distressed father, whose son was lying sick unto death, visited a Chinese Temple at Sai-wan on Tuesday with the object of appealing to an idol called the Po Sat. There he met the temple keeper who, observing his troubled look, made inquiries as to the nature of his sorrow. The parent told the keeper his story, and asked the latter to assist him in jossing the Po Sat. The caretaker of the temple agreed, and together they besought the idol to restore the sick boy to health and strength. When the appeal to the stone god had concluded the temple-keeper is said to have persuaded his co-worshipper that he had received directions for the treatment of the child. He gathered a number of what are known as bullock's horn leaves, boiled these in water, and handed the liquid to the father to give his son to drink. The son drank, and shortly afterwards died. The temple keeper appeared before Mr. J. B. Wood at the Magistracy yesterday on a charge of manslaughter, and was remanded pending the results of the post-mortem examination.

THE TONKIN-YUNNAN RAILWAY.

Mrs. A. Little has addressed a letter to a London paper commenting on the fact that the London Press had practically ignored the opening of the great Tonkin-Yunnan Railway, one of the grandest, if not the greatest, of engineering exploits in recent years. Mrs. Little says:— "I had been assured by engineers, who lately worked upon it, that owing to the unprecedented rise of the river—not in the dreaded Namti Valley, but in the valley between Y-liang and Yunnan—this railway had been washed away, and that trains were not able to run, and that although enormous sums had been realised by the contractors, or because they had been, the railway company was bankrupt, and the French Government had had to come to its assistance, but had not yet accomplished the connection between Y-liang and the capital of the Province. There must be many people in London who really know the truth about all this. If the enterprises have attained success, it seems ungenerous that so little notice should have been taken of it, the British having decided that a rival line between Japan and China, Burma to Yunnan, was beyond one's resources. It would, in any case, be a great satisfaction to know definitely that the pleasant Paradise of Yunnan, full of flowers as of birds, exquisite white orchids, yet unknown in English flower shows, growing abundantly on the hillsides, birds in flocks accompanying the traveller like a winged advanced guard—it would be comfort to know that pleasant region is attainable by train instead of by a fortnight's very hard travelling through a most pestiferous region, or about a month of the hardest travelling. I have just tried up from the Yangtze, across mountain ranges, beyond mountain range."

DEPORTATIONS FROM MANCHURIA.

JAPANESE THREAT OF RETALIATION.

ACTIVITY OF FOREIGN CONSULS. In the course of an interview on the 17th instant with Viscount Hsi, says a Manchu dispatch to the Osaka Mainichi, Mr. Koike, Japanese Consul-General at Mukden, admitted that the Chinese Government appeared to be entitled to deport Japanese and Koreans from places in Manchuria, which were not opened to foreign trade, in accordance with her treaty rights. Originally the treaty was concluded for the purpose of making intercourse between Japan and China work smoothly. As a result of the development of the world's commerce in Manchuria, the Japanese and Koreans "naturally" went to reside in places not open to foreign trade, as they were now doing, but without any malicious intention. If the Chinese authorities enforced the deportation of Japanese and Koreans from Manchuria, the Japanese would resent the action, and would drive away the large number of Chinese now residing in various parts of Korea. In that case the relations between Japan and China would be disturbed, which might not be the wish of the Prince-Rogent of China. The Viscount replied that the Koreans residing at the places mentioned had been ordered to be deported by the local authorities on their own responsibility, and he (the Viscount) had not issued any order to that effect. The dispatch further states that the British and American Consuls at Mukden have demanded of Mr. Kan, in charge of foreign affairs in Mukden, detailed information as to the number of Japanese residing in Kai-yuen and other places in Manchuria not opened to foreign trade. The Consuls are said to have expressed surprise that the Japanese, who are foreigners, are allowed to reside in these places and to engage in trade. Mr. Kan will make an investigation into the number of Japanese residing in all parts of Manchuria, and supply the Consuls with the information required. —Japan Chronicle.

SHARP RISE IN AMERICAN COTTON.

LONDON, August 30th.

New York reports a jump in the price of Cotton to twenty cents—the highest price reached since the Civil War.

This has been manipulated by a bull clique headed by Eugene Sealeys, who is expected to clear three millions sterling by it.

The clique, appears to control practically all the August cotton in sight.

THE KAISER'S SPEECH.

HIS MAJESTY'S OWN DEFENCE.

LONDON, August 29th.

The semi-official newspaper, the "Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung," vigorously rebuts the newspaper attacks on the Kaiser's recent speech, especially the passage, "Regardless of the views and opinions of the hour, I shall go my way, which is devoted solely to the well-being and peaceful development of the Fatherland."

The journal states that it would be bad for the King who would take the opinions of the day as a rule of conduct.

LONDON, August 30th.

H.M. the Kaiser, speaking at Marienburg, said the Teutonic Knights taught the lesson that Teutonism and Christianity were inseparable. His Majesty himself, and his grandfather, before him, working under a high trust imposed by God, so understood it; and he assumed that every honourable Christian similarly understood it. This is what he meant by his speech at Koenigsberg.

DEATH ROLL FROM FOREST FIRES 142.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 26th.

The death roll resulting from the recent forest fires in the States of Idaho, Montana, Washington and Oregon is 142. The missing number 185. Most of the dead and missing are members of the forestry service who sacrificed their lives to save the forest wealth of the United States.

The fires in all of the States affected are subsiding owing to rains and a fall of snow in some sections.

THE TYPHOON.

After many warnings of typhoons beyond the 300 mile radius the one which has been signalled for the last couple of days yesterday approached to within 300 miles of the Colony, and the red drum was replaced at the different signal stations by the more ominous black warning. In the afternoon the weather was showery, but the squalls which usually herald the approaching gale were missing, and the sea remained calm. It was expected that the typhoon would reach the Colony at about eight o'clock last night, but at that hour the weather had shown considerable improvement, although the "green, red, green" vertical lights which were suspended at a late hour served to remind residents that the dread visitant was still uncomfortably near Hongkong.

WEATHER REPORT.

The Hongkong Observatory yesterday issued the following report:—

On the 30th at 10.30 a.m.—Black Drum hoisted.

At 11.50 a.m.—The barometer has risen slightly in S. Formosa, and fallen moderately on the S. coast of China.

The depression appears to be situated to the South of the Formosa Channel, and to be moving Westwards.

Pressure has increased moderately in N.E. Japan, the northern depression having moved away over the Pacific.

High pressure still covers the Pacific to the S.E. of Japan.

Strong winds to gales may be expected over the Formosa Channel and the N.E. part of the China Sea.

Hongkong rainfall for the 24 hours ending at 10 a.m. to day, 0.00 inches.

The forecast for the 24 hours ending at noon to-day is as follows:—

Hongkong & Neighbourhood N.W. winds, freshening, squally with rain.

Formosa Channel N.E. gale.

South coast of China between Hongkong and Lamooka N.W. winds, strong.

South coast of China between Hongkong and Hainan N.W. and W. winds, moderate to fresh.

THE ANNEXATION OF KOREA.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

["DAILY PRESS" EXCLUSIVE SERVICE.]

TOKYO, August 29th.

Two Imperial Rescripts as well as voluminous announcements have been published to-day notifying the annexation of Korea by Japan.

The Emperor grants an amnesty to malefactors and backward taxpayers in Korea.

The Governor-General has issued Decrees relating to the Customs duties, the status quo being preserved.

The Foreign Office has issued a declaration in reference to the status of foreigners and protecting their economic interests.

The Consul-General for Japan in Hongkong forwards us the text of the principal documents, which we append:—

DECLARATION.

Notwithstanding the earnest and laborious work of reforms in the administration of Korea in which the Government of Japan and Korea have been engaged for more than four years since the conclusion of the Agreement of 1905, the existing system of Government in that country has not proved entirely equal to the duty of preserving public order and tranquillity, and in addition a spirit of suspicion and misgiving dominates the whole peninsula. In order to maintain peace and stability in Korea, to promote the prosperity and welfare of Koreans, and at the same time to ensure the safety and repose of foreign residents, it has been made abundantly clear that fundamental changes in the actual régime of Government are absolutely essential. The Governments of Japan and Korea, being convinced of the urgent necessity of introducing reforms respective to the requirements of the situation and of furnishing sufficient guarantees for the future, have, with the approval of His Majesty the Emperor of Korea, concluded through their respective plenipotentiaries a Treaty providing for the complete annexation of Korea to the Empire of Japan. By virtue of that important act, which shall take effect on its promulgation, the Imperial Government of Japan undertake the entire government and administration of Korea, and they hereby declare that the matters relating to foreigners and foreign trade in Korea shall be conducted in accordance with the following rules:—

(1) The Treaties hitherto concluded by Korea with Foreign Powers ceasing to be operative Japan's existing treaties will, so far as practicable, be applied in Korea. Foreigners resident in Korea will, as far as conditions permit, enjoy the same rights and immunities as in Japan proper and the protection of their legally acquired rights, subject in all cases to the jurisdiction of Japan. The Imperial Government of Japan are ready to consent that the jurisdiction in respect of cases actually pending in any foreign consular courts in Korea at the time the Treaty of Annexation takes effect shall remain in such courts until final decision.

(2) Independently of any conventional engagements formerly existing on the subject, the Imperial Government of Japan will for a period of ten years levy upon goods imported into Korea from foreign countries or exported from Korea to foreign countries and upon foreign vessels entering any of the open ports of Korea the same import or export duties and same tonnage dues as under the existing schedules. The same import or export duties and tonnage dues as those to be levied upon the aforesaid goods and vessels will also for a period of ten years be applied in respect of goods imported into Korea from Japan or exported from Korea to Japan and Japanese vessels.

(3) The Imperial Government of Japan will also permit for a period of ten years vessels under the flags of Powers having treaties with Japan to engage in the coasting trade between the open ports of Korea and between those ports and any open ports of Japan. (4) The existing open ports of Korea, with the exception of Masanpo, will be continued as open ports, and in addition Shin-wju will be newly opened so that vessels foreign as well as Japanese will there be admitted and goods may be imported into and exported from those ports.

TREATY.

His Majesty the Emperor of Japan and His Majesty the Emperor of Korea, having in view the special and close relations between their respective countries, desiring to promote the common weal of the two nations and to assure permanent peace in the Extreme East, being convinced that these objects can be best attained by the annexation of Korea to the Empire of Japan, have resolved to conclude a treaty of such annexation, and have for that purpose appointed as their plenipotentiaries, that is to say, His Majesty the Emperor of Japan Viscount Masakata Teranishi, His Resident General, and His Majesty the Emperor of Korea Ye Wan Yong, His Minister President of State, who upon mutual conference and deliberation have agreed to the following articles:—

1. His Majesty the Emperor of Korea makes complete and permanent cession to His Majesty the Emperor of Japan of all rights of sovereignty over the whole of Korea.

2. His Majesty the Emperor of Japan accepts the concession mentioned in the preceding article and consents to the complete annexation of Korea to the Empire of Japan.

3. His Majesty the Emperor of Japan will accord to their Majesties the Emperor and Ex-Emperor and His Imperial Highness the Crown Prince of Korea and their consorts and heirs such titles, dignity and honour as are appropriate to their respective ranks, and sufficient annual grants will be made for the maintenance of such titles, dignity and honour.

4. His Majesty the Emperor of Japan will also accord appropriate honour and treatment to the members of the Imperial House of Korea and their heirs other than those mentioned in the preceding articles, and the funds necessary for the maintenance of such honour and treatment will be granted.

5. His Majesty the Emperor of Japan will confer peerages and monetary grants upon those Koreans who on account of meritorious services are regarded as deserving such special recognition.

6. In consequence of the aforesaid annexation the Government of Japan assume the entire government and administration of Korea and undertake to afford full protection for the persons and property of Koreans obeying the laws therein in force and to promote the welfare of all such Koreans.

7. The Government of Japan will, as far as circumstances permit, employ in the public service of Japan in Korea those Koreans who accept the new régime loyally and in good faith and who are duly qualified for such service.

8. This treaty, having been approved by His Majesty the Emperor of Japan and His Majesty the Emperor of Korea, shall take effect from the date of its promulgation.

TIENTSIN TRADE IN 1909.

In the course of a long and interesting Report on the Trade of Tientsin for the year 1909 Mr. H. M. Hillier, Commissioner of Customs, says:—

The trade at Tientsin at the opening of the year was in a state of considerable depression from various causes, the most prominent of them being the over-rating and reckless speculation of the preceding years. The total indebtedness of the Chinese mercantile community to foreign merchants at that time is estimated to have been no less than Tls. 14,000,000, including the accumulated interest on accounts outstanding for many years. This formidable sum was at the end of the year, after deducting debts that appeared irrecoverable and compounding others, reduced to Tls. 5,000,000, which, under agreement with the diplomatic representatives of the foreign merchants and a committee representing the principal Chinese houses, known as the Li-shih hui, it was arranged to repay by instalments covering a period of 25 years, bearing interest at 4 per cent, the interest alone being payable for the first four years. A bank was to be specially established by the Li-shih hui to finance this agreement. The currency difficulty alluded to in the trade report for the year 1908 still exists as a troublesome element in the business transactions of the port, the foreign banks still have in their coffers an accumulation of debased silver bullion, amounting, at a conservative estimate, to over a million taels, which is not acceptable as currency payment of Customs duties. A step towards a solution was, however, made on the 4th December, when the Customs Tactol, representatives of the foreign Consuls, the banks, and the Chinese Chamber of Commerce met to discuss the question. A solution was proposed on the basis that the Chamber of Commerce should guarantee to the banks the differences between the debased silver held by them and standard silver of 992 purity, the banks undertaking to pay the melting fees for the conversion into standard silver, and the Kingkuo, or Assay Office, thereafter to pass no silver of lower standard. There is some hope that this agreement will take effect in the year 1910. The parity of the copper currency has remained fairly steady during the past 12 months, varying from 1.15 to 1.20 copper pieces to the dollar, as recorded in the annual report of the year 1909. The fact of the parity of the year has been the remarkable impulse given to the export trade, whilst the same cannot be said of the foreign import trade, which, owing to an overstocked market, had exchange, and general lack of confidence, was very poor indeed for the first six months and only began to revive in the second half of the year, showing real improvement and becoming almost normal towards December.

THE JAPANESE EXPEDITION TO THE POLE.

REASONS FOR THE POSTPONEMENT.

Count Okuma, Chairman of the Shirase Antarctic Expedition Auxiliary Association, has announced through the columns of the Tokyo Asahi that the postponement of the departure of the Shirase expedition for the South Pole is rendered necessary owing to advice received from various quarters intimating that the scope of the expedition will be enlarged and preparations thereof be effected as fully as can be desired. Otherwise, the Shirase expedition would have started for its destination on August 15th, as previously arranged. Subscriptions collected during the past thirty days in aid of the expedition amount to over £55,000, including a sum of £10,000 granted by "the authorities." This is strong proof, says Count Okuma, that the Shirase expedition scheme has received the support of the Japanese people. Lieutenant Shirase, assisted by members of the expedition, will therefore push forward the scheme to the bitter end. Subscriptions received by the Tokyo Asahi and Osaka Asahi in aid of the expedition amounted, on the 16th instant, to ¥47,535.—Japan Gazette.

THE C.P.R. STEAMER.

Both the Empress of Britain and the Empress of Ireland, says the Montreal Star, are showing such an extraordinary increase of traffic, both passenger and freight, this season, that the officials of the C.P.R. are said to be forcing ahead the negotiations which were entered into a short time ago for placing two new steamers on their transatlantic service, which will be larger and faster even than the Empress boats. The latter would then, it is said, be transferred to the Pacific service. Practically the whole of the passenger accommodation of the Empresses has been booked right up to the end of the season, and the freight traffic continues to show an increase. What this is may be judged from the fact that these boats are carrying 17 per cent. of the Scandinavian trade, which is said to be a larger proportion of this business carried by any other line running either to Canada or the United States. At the same time, all other Canadian steamship lines report a largely increased business as compared with last year, and exports from Canada, which have been on the quiet side recently, are reported to be improving.

HONGKONG SANITARY BOARD.

A meeting of the Sanitary Board was held yesterday at the Board Room. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe presided, and there were present:—Hon. Mr. E. A. Irving (Registrar-General), Mr. A. Shelton Hooper, Dr. G. L. Fitzwilliams, Mr. Lau Chu Pak, Mr. Ng Hon Tsz, Dr. F. Clark (Medical Officer of Health), Dr. W. W. Pearce (Assistant Medical Officer of Health), and Mr. W. Bowen Rowlands (Secretary).

OFFENSIVE TRADES.

An application from Shamsui for a fat boiling licence was considered.

The President informed members that the Crown Solicitor was of opinion that the Board could not grant a licence conditionally, and as the Assistant Medical Officer of Health was not prepared to recommend this application, he thought it would be wisest to refuse it.

Mr. LAU CHU PAK.—The business has been in existence there for a long time, has it not?

The President stated that this applicant started boiling fat there without any permission. He was charged at the Police Court, fined either $10 or $25, and told that if he wished to continue he must take out a licence. Thereupon he made this application, but it was found that the place was not suitable, and the President proposed that the application be refused.

Mr. HOOPER, in seconding the motion, said he thought it was unfortunate that the Board had no power to grant conditional licences, because the conditions obtaining to-day might be changed in three years' time, when it might be the duty of members not to renew licences. He hoped that the matter might be brought to the notice of the Government so that they might be given power, by legislative enactment or by bylaw, to deal with cases like this.

Mr. LAU CHU PAK was not opposed to the resolution, but he thought a site should be set apart for this particular trade.

The President was in accord with Mr. Hooper, and thought it would be very much easier for the Board to deal with these applications if they could grant conditional licences. He would take steps to ascertain whether this could be done by bylaw, or whether it would be necessary to have the Ordinance amended, and he would inform members. With regard to the setting apart of a site, an area in Victoria was under consideration at the present moment, and when that was settled it would be well to settle the question for the whole of Kowloon.

Dr. FITZWILLIAMS was of opinion that an area for offensive trades should be set apart in all the villages, otherwise this question would be always arising.

The Registrar-General said it seemed to him that this man had been boiling fat at Shamsui for many years.

Mr. HOOPER.—Illegally.

The Registrar-General.—And now the Board takes cognizance of him and says he must not boil fat without a licence, and when he applies for one the Board says, You won't get one. Before we stop this business it would be fair to decide the question of area and permit him to carry on in the meanwhile.

The President said if this place had been on the outskirts of Shamsui there would have been no objection.

Mr. LAU CHU PAK moved an amendment that the application be refused, but that the applicant be informed his trade would not be interfered with for twelve months.

Mr. NG HON Tsz seconded.

Mr. HOOPER doubled if this was in order. It was upon a rataplayer to prosecute the man, and for him to plead that the Board had promised not to prosecute him would place it in a very false position.

The amendment was withdrawn, the motion was carried, and the Registrar-General, Mr. Lau Chu Pak and the Assistant Medical Officer of Health were appointed a committee to recommend an area for this trade to the Board.

An application for a similar licence came from Kennedy Town, the position being to the east of Sand Street.

The President stated that as this was just on the border of the area set apart, he saw no objection to granting the application.

Mr. HOOPER.—Don't you think it might affect property in Holland Street?

The President.—That street consists of godowns.

Mr. HOOPER.—I think there are 26 houses there, and the carrying on of such a trade would constitute a nuisance.

The President.—One of the houses is apparently already a fat boiling establishment.

Mr. HOOPER.—I would ask that this matter stand over. There is no immediate hurry till next meeting.

The President.—The application was received.

Mr. HOOPER.—I don't think that matters much. If the matter is allowed to stand over I may withdraw my opposition. If not, I will move that it be not granted.

Mr. LAU CHU PAK.—In the meantime the man may have to pay rent.

Dr. FITZWILLIAMS supported Mr. Hooper, and felt satisfied that the applicant would lose less after the place had been inspected.

Consideration of the application was postponed.

HAMBURG LETTER.

WRITTEN SPECIALLY FOR THE "HONGKONG DAILY PRESS."

August 31st.

THE COMPLAINTS OF BAD TRADE.

It seems difficult to reconcile the continued complaints of bad trade with the official returns of exports, &c., and the fact, mentioned some time ago, that the great shipping companies, which during the winter and autumn had a number of steamers laid up for want of cargo, are at present not only running every one of their own boats, but have actually been obliged to charter extra ones in order to meet the demand for freight space. Moreover I learn that the Hamburg America Line, besides another huge passenger boat, has ordered four new cargo boats and the Deutsche Austral Gesellschaft three. There must, therefore, be business of some magnitude going on, but possibly manufacturers may not always find it remunerative, prices of most raw materials having gone up considerably whilst those of the manufactured articles have not kept pace. This is especially the case in the cotton industries, where, owing to the failure of the last American crop, prices of cotton have for the past nine months ruled above the average of previous years, and would probably be at a still higher level but for the general curtailment of production on the part of the mills all over the world. The situation is becoming more serious every day as the prospect of the American crop now in the field is by no means as promising as might be wished. The Agricultural Bureau in Washington in its monthly report for July giving the stand as only 75.4 as compared with 71.9 last year and 83 in 1908. An acknowledged authority in the trade, the managing director of one of the largest mills in Saxony, has sounded a note of warning in the Press. He proves by statistics that the stocks of cotton, yarns and finished goods not only in Great Britain and the United States, but on the Continent of Europe as well, notably in this country, must be nearer exhaustion than ever before, and that consequently to fill up the gaps a crop of at least 14 million bales in the States will be required. Under ordinary circumstances one of 15.3 millions might suffice, as the world's consumption two years ago was estimated at from 12½ to 13 millions and the annual increase arising from the natural growth of the population does not exceed 3 per cent. But is there at least a chance of the latter figure being reached? The writer thinks not and deeply regrets that the majority of German spinners and manufacturers still cling to the belief in a huge crop and the idea that the only way to escape heavy losses later on is to work up their last ounce of cotton and their last yard of yarn and cloth. What is to happen, however, if the yield be a moderate, say, even a fair one, and prices instead of declining, as fondly anticipated, should advance? By using up all reserves a real, not an artificial, short interest is being created, such as has not been witnessed for forty years. It will require a monster crop (which seems to be out of the question) to satisfy the demand of starving consumers, and even then an accumulation of stocks cannot be looked for for many months to come. Do spinners and manufacturers in pursuing so perilous a policy realize what the prospects of supply are up to the end of December? Are they aware that the weekly consumption of the world amounts to 250,000 bales and that only half that can be counted upon with any degree of certainty? There is every reason to doubt it, for they are proceeding as if the position were perfectly normal and not one of actual famine. The upshot will probably be a wild upward movement causing severe losses to the trade. Mr. Tattersall, of Manchester, in whose judgment full reliance may be placed, estimates the losses incurred so far by such of the British mills as are in the habit of publishing half-yearly balance sheets at 9.31 per cent. of their share capital, and the state of affairs in this country is, in the opinion of the writer of the article, probably no better. Now, he says, if ever, is the time for spinners and manufacturers to stand by each other and to act in concert, in order to avert the threatening calamity, for their interests are identical.

I have given this article somewhat fully, as it appears to me to concern not only producers at home, but buyers of cotton goods abroad as well.

THE LABOUR MARKET.

The state of the labour market in this country seems to be better than elsewhere, for the number of alien workpeople has risen during the three years from 1905 to 1908 from 454,000 to 780,000, of which 507,000 in the former and 309,000 in the latter found employment on "the land," whilst 274,000 and 471,000 were absorbed by the various industries. Emigration during that period having been practically nil, it follows that they must have met with remunerative occupation or they could have returned home and stopped a further influx of their countrymen. That they should have ousted German workmen is not to be supposed, as employers much prefer their own people, if they can be had, to foreigners, if only on account of the somewhat troublesome police regulations with regard to the latter.

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Herr von Lindquist, Herr Dernburg's successor at the Colonial Office, has shown his appreciation of the co-operation of the mercantile community in matters colonial by a letter addressed to the Chamber of Commerce of Berlin in which he says that, although the initiative in the development of the colonies must remain with the settlers, merchants and farmers, it behoves the government to aid their endeavours by general measures, such as the extension of the means of communication and transport, the regulation of native labour, &c. But besides these there are questions of still wider importance for the solution of which the advice and assistance of practical men of ripe knowledge and experience appear to him highly desirable, in agricultural affairs the co-operation of the "Landwirtschaftslehre" has proved most valuable, and he therefore now proposes to establish an advisory committee for commercial matters to consist of members of the leading chambers of commerce of the country. Berlin is to be represented by two, Hamburg by two, and Bremen, Cologne, Nürnberg, Mannheim and Chemnitz by one each, and these several chambers are requested to send in the names of members they consider qualified.

This is no doubt a step in the right direction and will enlist the sympathy of all concerned, particularly as it will tend to modify the present bureaucratic system of administration abroad.

COLONIAL PRODUCTS.

The furtherance of the production of raw materials for the use of the industries at home, such as wool, cotton, indiarubber, coffee, cocoa, sisal hemp, copra, &c., will be one of the principal objects to engage the attention of the Committee, for, although satisfactory progress has been made so far, a more rapid expansion will be, it is hoped, the result of its co-operation. The value of exports from the different colonies during the years 1903 to 1908 has been in millions of Marks:—

	African Colonies.	South Sea Colonies.	Kiao-chow.	Total.
1903	21.7	5.9	14.7	40.3
1904	20.8	3.9	20	44.7
1905	23.4	4.4	24.7	52.5
1906	25.5	5.6	34.2	65.3
1907	35.9	5.2	32.6	73.7
1908	37.7	8.7	47.3	93.7

THE TIME.

An innovation deserving the grateful acknowledgement of all shippers has lately been introduced at the wireless telegraph station at Norddeich, &c., the signalling of the exact Greenwich time both at noon and at midnight. At 11.55 a.m. and p.m. a preliminary signal is made in order to allow of the receivers on board the vessels it may reach being properly attuned; at 11.57 a.m. and 11.58 a.m. it is followed by two further calls, and at 11.58 a.m. the first time signal is emitted consisting of five dashes at intervals of one second, another five dashes being transmitted after a short pause; at 11.59 a.m. the final five are sent off, the last of which indicates noon or midnight as the case may be. To insure perfect exactitude an astronomical clock has been supplied to the station which is carefully controlled by the Imperial Observatory at Wilhelmshaven and emits the signals automatically. Captains will thus have an opportunity of verifying the correctness of their chronometers whilst at sea.

SOUTH INDIA AND ESTATE LABOUR.

The Madras Times, writing on estate labour supply, one of the subjects discussed at the U.P.A.S.I. conference, says:—

If the demand is greater than the supply the price must be raised. We note that Mr. A. J. Mead and Mr. C. C. S. both pointed out that wages had not risen in India with the general rise of prices. We do not feel quite certain that this is the case as regards plantation labour. Some twenty years ago the usual scale of wages in planting districts was 4 annas per diem for a man and 2 annas 8 pies for a woman. We imagine that there are very few estates on which this scale is still adhered to. On a tea estate during the flushing months a woman can easily earn six annas a day, and even more, and we understand that in Ceylon eight annas a day is often paid for rubber-tapping coolies. We here enter the realms of supply and demand with a vengeance, because a wage of eight annas a day, if only it were continuous throughout the year, makes the occupation of an agricultural labourer attractive, so far as wages are concerned, to the huge class which provides clerks and schoolmasters and all the other badly paid servants of Government and commercial houses. The supply of labour in India at this rate ought to be enormous and far larger even than the demand. We do not mean to give up their professions to go rubber tapping, but the fact that such high wages are to be obtained in agricultural pursuits may show the slightly educated class that manual labour is often as profitable as clerical. However, looking at the question from the planter's point of view, it is obvious that very few agricultural industries could survive so great a rise in the scale of wages. Indeed, we imagine that rubber cultivation is the only one. In consequence competition from them must be ruinous, and the danger which must beset tea and coffee planters in the future. It is obvious that, if an adequate supply of labour for all is to be kept up, wages must rise, but, so long as the supply is limited, as it is now, the rubber plantations will attract all the available coolies, and other agricultural industries will go to the wall. It is no wonder that the coffee and tea planters are becoming agitated and wish to throw impediments in the way of recruitment of emigrant labour. The enormous increase in recruiting agencies must in time increase to the comprehension of the coolie that labour is a commodity worth a considerable amount to himself in an open market. At present he does not reap the full value of the demand for his work, because of the middleman and the pernicious system of inflated advances. Mr. Martin gave some valuable information at the Bangalore Conference on this question of advances. It is a factor which upsets all calculations in the equation between supply and demand, because the money given by way of advance is so much irrecoverable capital thrown out to attract the labour in the first instance. It corrupts the coolie because it shows him how easy it is to get into debt which need never be repaid, and it corrupts the contractor because estate managers will enter into an insane competition with each other in raising the amount of their advances. It certainly is difficult to see how the labour supply of the future is to be increased if the advance system is not kept down within its necessary and healthy limits. Even so, it is difficult to foresee how planters will enforce their contracts without the assistance of an Act. Company promoters at home talk glibly of the certainty of a labour supply because of the steady increase of the population. They ought, before indulging in their optimism, to study the complex problem of the labour supply of South India on the spot, or rely on the experience of some of the most intelligent recruits.

EMPEROR OF THE BRITISH.

WHY SHOULD NOT THE KING ADOPT THE TITLE?

The Coronation of King George will take place next June. The actual date has not yet been fixed. His Majesty would, in the ordinary course, assume the title of "King of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominions Beyond the Seas Defender of the Faith; Emperor of India."

The London Daily Express believes the time has come when there should be an alteration, or at least an addition, to the titles adopted by the British Sovereign.

That British Empire is now something more than a mere convenient term, and it is surely fit that King George should be known as "Emperor of the British."

An Empire is strictly a collection of two or more independent sovereignties. The German Empire, for instance, consists of the kingdoms of Prussia, Saxony, Württemberg, and Bavaria, and many grand duchies and duchies. The Austrian Empire consists of Austria and Hungary, and so on.

IMPERIAL GROWTH.

The British Empire has come slowly into being. Strictly speaking, perhaps, when the Dukes of Lancaster and Cornwall were invested with regal powers, an empire was technically created. But while India was still in the possession of the East India Company and the Colonies were still only Colonies there was actually no such thing as the British Empire.

Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa have, however, now become great and, in many respects, independent countries speaking the English language, loyal to the British Crown, bound by innumerable ties to the Mother-country, but every bit as independent as the Kingdom of Saxony or the Kingdom of Württemberg.

It must never be forgotten that the Sovereign is the one living link between the various countries of the British Empire, and that the legal right of final appeal from the Colonial courts is not to an English court but to the Privy Council—the King's Council nominated from the whole of the Empire.

India is an empire by itself, and King George is Emperor of India, but outside India we have the absurd anomaly of an Empire without an Emperor.

EMPEROR COUNCIL.

One of these days there may be an Imperial legislative body called into existence and containing representatives of all the British countries, but we feel that we are voicing the feelings not only of tens of thousands of men and women at home, but perhaps of still more of our fellow-countrymen across the seas, when we say it at the dignity and prestige of the Empire demand an Emperor.

There is no outside power by which Emperors can be made. It is doubtful if the British Parliament itself would have any authority to pass an Act conferring the new title upon the King. If it were adopted there would be no change in his functions or his powers.

All that is suggested is that King George should at the moment of his coronation take to himself and for his successors the title, rank, and dignity of "Emperor of the British" in addition to all his other titles and as a title of dignity only.

It is evident that the King will only do this if he is assured that it is the wish of his people, for we live in democratic days and in the most democratic Empire that the world has ever known.

If the new title is to be assumed, steps must be taken throughout the Empire, and by means of non-party resolutions, to bring the people's will to the knowledge of the people's King.

SUGGESTED TITLE.

All that can be done is to make it quite evident that it is the universal desire that the King should next June declare his style to be—

Our Sovereign Lord George, by the wish of his people Emperor of the British, and by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the British Dominions beyond the Seas, King, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

We give below a list of the world's empires, with their areas and population. The British Empire exceeds them all:—

	Area.	Population.
Abyssinia	350,000	4,000,000
Austria	281,335	49,425,000
China	1,500,000	400,000,000

ATTEMPTED CORNEH IN SILVER.

INDIAN NATIVE BANKERS MAKING ENORMOUS PURCHASES.

The Englishman (Calcutta) states that the attempt by a group of native bankers in Bombay and Calcutta to corner silver continues. To July 26 last they had secured one-ninth of the world's entire output, and made enormous purchases. Indeed a Calcutta banker reports that the group now holds half the world's supply, but this is unconfirmed.

The American group now hold stock back, but are ready to offer it at a favourable opportunity occurs. The greatest difficulty in the way of the Indian speculation succeeding lies in the trade conditions in the Far East, where there is an upheaval of the financial market, owing to the failure of many native firms, and consequently there is no present demand for silver. The Indian group must nurse its stock till normal conditions prevail in China. The question is whether the group can afford to hold on for a lengthy period.

THE TROUBLE IN TIBET.

DR. SVEN HEDIN AND THE LOSS OF BRITISH PRESTIGE.

An article by Dr. Sven Hedin on "The Policy of the Dalai Lama" appears in this month's Contemporary Review, and in view of recent developments, the article on Dr. Hedin speaks with almost unrivalled authority—in of great importance.

Referring to the British expedition to Lhasa in 1904, Dr. Hedin says:—

Now that six more years have passed we are able, from a greater distance, to get a better perspective of those events, whose scene is laid in the highest mountain ranges of the world. It is easier to criticise than to strike a great blow. Many among these myself—disapproved of Lord Curzon's Tibetan policy six years ago. Now that all details are known and one can see the action of the great Viceroy in its right milieu, one must recognise that it was a political necessity, brought about by the irresistible course of events.

Several accidental circumstances affected this course of events. If the Japanese war had not come the upshot might have been different. If the Russian Ambassador in London had not protested, Tibet would not have got off so easily. If the leader of the Opposition had not become the chief of the new British Cabinet the consequences of Lord Curzon's policy would, probably at least, have been carried out. One surprise after the other interfered with the logical development of events.

England has emerged from this complicated tangle without loss of prestige, except in Tibet, and it is only owing to the above-named accidental circumstances that the Lhasa expedition did not yield better results.

IN 1904.

As it will be remembered, the Lama left Lhasa as Colonel Younghusband approached.

When they left Lhasa they heard that the Dalai Lama left his capital the preceding night, followed by Dorjeff and other faithful monks. And the Amban declares that if the Dalai Lama refuses to come back and resume the negotiations with Younghusband he will in consequence thereof be deposed, and the Tashi Lama of Tashi-lumpo will be installed in his place as the head of the Lamaistic hierarchy. And the thirteenth Dalai Lama was really deposed, as was one of his predecessors, the sixth Dalai Lama.

An Imperial proclamation about this was hung up in a public place. It is true, it was signed with dirt and horse manure, according to what my caravan leader, Muhammed Isa, who was then at Lhasa, told me. But otherwise the deposition aroused no excitement; it rather looked as if the people were glad to be rid of a high priest who by his obstinacy had brought disaster on his country.

From all the Blue-books contain about the Dalai Lama it is clear that he wished as far as possible to rule the country himself and make himself completely independent of the seven sign States, China.

The Swedish explorer traces the course of events in the years before the 1904 expedition, and he points out that the Lama evidently desired that the Tibetans should act entirely in defiance of the wishes of the Chinese, whose prestige had suffered in Central Asia after their defeat by the Japanese.

CHINA'S CHANCE.

Largely owing, however, to the action of the British Government, events have changed enormously during the last few years. Again to quote Dr. Hedin, "The Liberal English Government (have) let go all the advantages that might have been gained through Lord Curzon's policy." Dr. Hedin quotes from his own book, "Trans-Himalayas":—

The blunder of the Dalai Lama, and the unexpected change of front on the part of the English, had given the Chinese an opportunity of establishing their supremacy over Tibet more securely than they had been able to do since the days of Kang Hsi and Kien Lung in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. Perhaps it was prudent of the Liberal Government in London to give up Chumbi, and by barring the frontier to exclude all possibility of boundary disputes and friction on the Indian side; for in our time the old Asia is beginning to waken out of its deep sleep, and the Great Powers of Europe which have interests there should rather seek to retain what they already possess than endeavour to make fresh acquisitions. At any rate the Chinese statesmen exhibited a most commendable prudence and vigilance, and gathered in all that the English gave up.

The Lama left Peking in 1908, and arrived at Lhasa a year later. He was allowed to stay there for forty-nine days only, and then he started journeying again, this time towards India.

In the Convention entered into by the United Kingdom and China on April 27, 1906, the superiority of China over Tibet was fully acknowledged, and it was further acknowledged by England and Russia in their Convention of 1907. As a matter of fact, the Chinese are the only people who have benefited at all from the Younghusband expedition. As Dr. Hedin says: "They reaped all the gain for which the English had worked."

TO-DAY.

It is said that after his return to Lhasa the Dalai Lama did not carry out the obligations he had entered into at Peking, and that "the Tibetans had seen for themselves that his promises were worthless and vain." He was altogether deserted by his people. England missed the opportunity. China has taken it.

Referring to the present position, Dr. Sven Hedin says:—

What is now the political situation for the English in India in consequence of the latest events in Tibet? Lord Morley has explained that all the frontier authorities immediately got orders "to maintain an attitude of strict neutrality." The English now play the same part as onlookers as the Chinese did during Younghusband's expedition. Only they have exchanged parts.

Then the English showed great and unwavering energy, while the Chinese, with an imperturbable Eastern calm, smiled and did not move a finger. Without breaking any treaties the Chinese are now sitting with admirable energy, and they wait—I ascertained this two years ago—to make Tibet a province as dependent on the Peking Government as is Eastern Turkestan. At present the English sit with folded arms, but they have no reason to smile.

Why do not the English act with energy and force on the frontier of Tibet? Because an invasion of Tibetan territory means war with China. No English Government will enter upon such an adventure except in a case of extreme necessity. The Chinese know this; their Japanese instructors know it, too; the German firms that provide them with arms know it. Lord Curzon acted at the right moment. Now it is too late, no one must be satisfied with strict neutrality.

William Richards, an English carpenter belonging to the British steamer Yangtze, in port, fell down one of the steamer's ladders on the 15th instant at Yokohama and was killed.

FORTY-FIVE MILE WALK THROUGH THE FLOODS.

TERRIBLE SCENES NEAR KARUIZAWA.

Latest reports from Karuizawa state that all danger is now passed, but it is evident that the destruction in the district has been very serious. Some idea of the conditions may be obtained from the following narrative of Mr. Phelps, Y.M.C.A. Secretary at Kyoto, who has been visiting Karuizawa. Mr. Phelps gave a representative of the Japan Gazette some particulars of the catastrophe, modestly saying but little of his own feat, and that of his friend accompanying him, in "beating their way" home in the face of great difficulties.

He himself was lodged in a house at Karuizawa on Hanara-yama, one of the highest points, and so might have remained almost indifferent to the floods beneath, but it appears that he, with all the foreign residents from every other point, rallied to the work of rescue when the danger came. The points absolutely intact when he started were the four houses on Hanara-yama, those on Dearing Hill, the foot of Atago, Watanabe-gumi and The Grove. No lives had been lost. Those among the notable ones just before Mr. Phelps started being Mrs. O'Brien, wife of the U.S. Ambassador, Marquis Katsura, Marquis Saionji, Baron S. Iwasawa and Dr. Nitobe.

It had been raining for a week, but cleared up on Monday (8th), and the tennis-players were busy. On Monday night there was a thunderstorm, and on Tuesday it rained hard. The day a small-sized typhoon, so Mr. Phelps had settled down at home to do some "rainy day" work, when friends called and spoke of the danger threatening a certain house. He promptly sallied forth and worked with other foreign young men, Japanese policemen and coolies, to save the Norman house. They dug down trees, drove piles, brought up sand-bags and finally completed an embankment which turned the current and saved the house by Wednesday night.

On Thursday morning, Mr. Phelps and Mr. C. V. Hibbard, of Dulny, having urgent business south, started to walk, but found the bridges down, and had to follow the railway, wading three miles. In this preliminary start and circling trip, they saw many sections of the damage at Karuizawa and neighbourhood. A stream was running straight through the waiting-room of the new station, coming right down the main street to the depot. From mountain to mountain was a plain of water. The dairies, saw-mills and Shin-Karuizawa were all under water. The police deserve highest credit for warning the occupants, even in the middle of the night, of their danger, and, with the riskismen and coolies, in participating in the relief work. The magnificent display of public spirit shown by the foreign residents was also worthy of all praise. The damage was divided among three principal sections. On the southeast side, Mr. Phelps's new house was washed away in the night, and the foot cut in to within a few feet of Dr. Loane's house, occupied by the Groves, while Ayer, Souder's and Hazen's houses were in great danger, but safe when Mr. Phelps left.

Mr. Phelps crossed the river to the east of the Auditorium, and found the houses all in great danger. The new

RUBBER OUTLOOK.

INCREASED PRODUCTION.

Although the markets both for raw rubber and for the shares of rubber companies are in a state of animated suspension, the development of the rubber plantation industry proceeds apace,
 and the production of the commodity is rapidly increasing. Not much change occurs from day to day in the price of the material, and rubber share values hold their own fairly well in the circumstances; but there appears to be a sort of indefinable something in the atmosphere in Mincing Lane and in the Stock Exchange which points to the rubber industry being in a transition stage. No one believes that the price of the commodity will advance very much, or that there will be any considerable reduction; but the conviction is gaining ground that in order to encourage the use of rubber as much as possible it is necessary that the value should be kept at a moderate level. The question is, who is to decide on the level at which the price should be maintained? One thing certain is that it is to the interest of the grower to give the manufacturer of rubber articles all the encouragement he possibly can, and that can only be done by selling rubber at such a price as will enable him to secure stocks for all his requirements instead of forcing him by high values to buy from hand to mouth as it were. Just now the market for plantation descriptions is stagnant, but Mincing Lane is looking to American consumers to relieve the position and bring about the much-desired improvement.

There are some who, jealous it may be of the gigantic proportions to which the rubber industry has attained, endeavour to scare investors by asking what is to become of their dividends five or ten years hence when, owing to the greatly increased production the price of the raw material may fall to 3s. or even to 2s. 6d.
 per lb. But in the highly improbable event of rubber sustaining such a severe decline in value, shareholders need not be unduly depressed, as there would still be a sufficient margin between receipts and costs to permit of the payment of substantial dividends. A recognized authority on the subject (Mr. Rutherford, chairman of the Bakit Rajah and other rubber companies) takes as a fair basis £31 5s. as the cost per acre of rubber brought into bearing.
 Including all charges, the cost of producing rubber should not be more than 1s. per lb., but,
 to provide against contingencies, let us add another 2d. and estimate the cost at 1s. 2d. per lb. On this basis a yield of no more than 300lb.
 per acre at 1s. 6d. per lb. would yield 16 per cent., at 2s. 6d. per lb. 64 per cent., and at 3s. per lb. 88 per cent. It will be noted that the foregoing estimates are based on 300lb. of rubber per acre only, which is very conservative, but if we assume a yield of 400lb. per acre the extra 100lb. would give an additional 33 per cent.

How rapidly the output of rubber is expanding is easily illustrated by comparing the latest returns of the various producing companies with the figures for the corresponding period of last year. So far an excellent series of crop returns for the month of July have come to hand, some of them showing striking increases.
 Prominent among them is Linggi Plantation, which makes a record return of 71,000lb. for the month in contrast with 48,000lb. in July, 1909.
 This brings the company's total to date for the seven months of the current year up to 436,000lb., which compares with 281,000lb. for the like period of 1909, and 527,000lb. for the whole of last year. Assuming that there is no further improvement, and that for the remaining months of the year the July return is maintained, the Linggi Plantation's production of rubber for 1910 will amount to approximately 790,000lb., an increase of 263,000lb. over the preceding year. It is not unreasonable to expect the Linggi to distribute large dividends for the current year, as the expansion in the output will make up for a considerable depreciation in value should such occur.

Another instance of the progress that is being made by the rubber industry is furnished by the Vallambrosa. This company's last financial year ended in March, during which period 371,516lb. of rubber were harvested and dividends aggregating 250 per cent. were distributed.
 For the four months to the end of July the output of rubber is returned at 132,500lb., against 101,984lb. for the corresponding period of 1909, and it is estimated that for the whole of the current financial year the crop will be 425,000lb.
 Assuming the Vallambrosa receives a net price in London for this year as last of 7s. 11d. per lb.,
 the estimated crop should yield a net profit of approximately £140,000, which would enable a dividend of at least 275 per cent. to be paid.
 This would represent about 11 per cent. on the present price of the shares, but by no means bad return. A gratifying increase is also shown by the Highlands and Lowlands Para Company, the out-turn of dry rubber last month amounting to 39,266lb., against 24,087lb. for July, 1909. This year to date the production is 288,823lb., as compared with 184,151lb. The Anglo-Malay's July production comes out at 53,627lb., which is 11,331lb. more than for the same month last year, while for the expired seven months of this year the total out-turn is 359,049lb., an improvement of 92,200lb. as compared with the figure for the corresponding period of 1909.

It would be possible for one to go on multiplying instances of the kind almost indefinitely, as all the producing companies exhibit substantial improvement in their output of rubber; but a brief passing reference is as much as space will permit. Among the companies which show increased production both for last month and for the seven months of the current year, in contrast with the results for the same periods of last year, are Perak Plantations, London Asiatic,
Palahang, Damanura (Selangor), Harpender
(Selangor), Federated (Selangor), Sekong, (Selangor), Seremban, Estate, Consolidated
Malay Estate, Labu (F.M.S.), Deirdred and Batu Caves. These by no means exhaust the list of companies which have greatly increased their production of rubber, but they will suffice to prove that the progress made has been general and of a character that is clearly calculated to give encouragement to those who have capital employed in the development of this comparatively new industry.—OPHIE, in The

REVIVAL OF THE DROWNED.

NEW METHOD INTRODUCED BY LIFE-SAVING SOCIETY.

The British Royal Life-Saving Society has circulated particulars of the new Schafer method for resuscitating the apparently drowned, and charts showing this and other methods are being displayed at look-houses and other places where boating men can best study them. The old way of resuscitating a patient upon his back with a hard roll of clothing under the shoulder, and having fastened the tongue to prevent contraction, to induce respiration by raising his arms and pressing the chest at frequent intervals.
 The Schafer method is quite different. It is a method which can easily be remembered and put into operation by one person. The same rules apply equally whether the subject has been drowned or is suffering from an electric shock, save that in the latter case it is necessary to find a dry surface on which to lay him.

The patient must be laid face downwards on the ground, and it is well not to delay applying the method even for the purpose of removing or loosening clothing. The operator puts himself astride or at one side of the patient, and places his hands on the small of the other's back. In this way his two thumbs meet in the centre of the back and his fingers are extended so as to cover the ribs. The instructions continue:
 "Then lean forward, and, keeping the arms straight, steadily allow the weight of your body to fall over upon them, and so produce a firm downward pressure, which must not be violent. Remember that your object is to press downward toward the ground, in order to decrease the size of the chest cavity."

By this means the air (and water, if there be any) is driven out of the patient's lungs.
 Immediately thereafter swing backward, rapidly releasing the pressure, but without lifting the hands from the patient's body. As the lungs are in a limp or relaxed condition, the tongue has a tendency to fall back and block the air passages.

Further, in cases of drowning there is an enormous congestion and swelling of the liver, combined with and caused by a great distension of the heart especially at the right side. This congested state of the liver renders the Howard method rather dangerous, since forcible pressure upon the lower chest is apt to cause its rupture.
 The Schafer method possesses none of the disadvantages which have been enumerated, as the patient is laid face downward. It is also efficient, less complicated than any other system, and involves a minimum amount of labour on the part of the operator.

MR. TAFT'S NEW MESSAGE.

AN AMBITIOUS PROGRAMME.

The Democratic New York World publishes a forecast of the Message which President Taft will address to the new Congress when it meets.

According to this Mr. Taft's programme for the next Session is no less ambitious than that with which he began his Presidency.

The Message, as summarised, covers the whole political ground. Economy is one of the chief aims, indicating a return to the charge which failed in its objective last Session, when,
 in spite of the President's recommendations,
 the appropriations surpassed all previous records.

The observation of America's natural resources is again touched upon. The establishment of a sound currency and a centralised health bureau are both advocated.

The shipping subsidy question also figures in the Message, despite the fact that Congress has consistently thrown out subsidy bills, and has at last demanded an inquiry as to the methods of some subsidy enthusiasts.

A request for the authorisation of the laying down of two battleships each year, and the provision of fortifications along the Panama Canal form other striking topics of this Message, in which we are told the tariff question will be referred to at length.

There will be an appeal for some remedy for the existing system, which permits of delays
 in the transaction of legal business, and the necessity for the establishment of a new Government in Alaska, whose lawlessness has been rampant, is pointed to.
